Courses in the Animal Molecular and Cellular Biology major are listed in the Graduate Catalog.

Examination requirements:

- Pass the Qualifying Exam (Candidacy Admission) by the midpoint of your seventh semester*.
- Must submit a Degree Application before the published deadline and meet all Graduate Degree Application deadlines.
- Degree candidates must enroll in research credits (ANS 7980) in the final term and in the term of the defense. Three credits in Fall/Spring or two credits in Summer.
- Successfully defend and pass the Final Exam*
- Complete the Binding Request form and Exit Checklist.

The qualifying exam, defense and examination of the PhD dissertation is strongly encouraged to be in person with the full committee and student together. If all attendees cannot be present in person together, accommodations can be made providing all attendees are present synchronously and that members questions are asked and answered in real time. The committee Chair and members are responsible for ensuring the academic integrity of the evaluation; ensuring that the student does not receive unauthorized assistance during the evaluation.

Please review the UF graduation checklist and the UF thesis checklist.

Federal regulation pertaining to foreign students studying in the U.S. No more than the equivalent of one online/distance education class or 3 credits per academic semester (3 credits is the maximum) may count towards the "full course of study" requirement, if an online or distance education course "does not require the student's physical attendance for classes, examination or other purposes integral to completion of the class."
